Hello,

I have an out of state recommendation for medical marijuana in the state of California as I went there for college and had moved back home to my hometown of Providence, RI. This would be really inconvenient for me as I have access to the medicine I need still while even having an California license. To have to require the state identification I get where you're coming from but what about the people that make life changes such as moves, having to find a doctor to help you with that's states recommendation and also more money that a lot of people may not have to afford another license. I really hope you reconsider this

Your new proposal to have patients with out of state identification is harmful because we live here now some of it's have traded in our old identification for a Rhode island identification card. Please reconsider your proposal because it will be harmful to anyone receiving medical help through the program.

Sincerely
A concerned patient.

This is ridiculous if someone has a card regardless the ID it should be accepted that's not fair to people who have come here to RI from CA nd haven't switched to the Rhode Island card yet because the CA card is still active. Like myself.

The new regulations regarding out-of-state medical marijuana patients, is not fair. A second form of identification is hard to retrieve if you've moved from the area. If they have a card from a medical marijuana specialist/doctor, then that should be all they need. Including a present form of identification preferably a picture ID.
